

Nigel Buttery

“To whom much is given, much will be required, Luke 12:48.

If you have heard that line of wisdom, you know it means we are held responsible for what we have been given. It is easy to assume that only wealthy people have been given much. But in truth, we have all been given much. We all have been blessed with gifts and talents - wisdom, understanding, counsel, courage, knowledge, devotion, time, giving, compassion - it is expected that we use them to benefit others. We should ask God for wisdom on how to use those resources and commit ourselves to expending them according to His will so that He may be glorified. This is simply responsible stewardship.

Nigel is a 1981 graduate of Old Dominion University school of business with a BS in management information systems. After retiring after 27 years as owner/partner of an information technology company that specialized in cyber-security and data center solutions, Nigel and his wife Annette were able to realize their dream of are enjoying life at the Outer Banks.