

Corissa Snyder

God places the lonely in families; he sets prisoners free and gives them joy...
Psalms 68:6

Corissa was raised in the Twin Cities of Minnesota, the daughter of a transformed heroin junkie turned inner-city pastor. She has been working and doing life with people affected by addiction since her youth.

Corissa served as a worship leader for most of her adult life, most recently at Liberty Christian Fellowship, where she continues to serve on the worship and prayer teams. She is on the Board of Directors for Women at the Well women's ministry, as well as a certified minister for Restoring the Foundations healing and deliverance ministry. Corissa is passionate about making Christ known and walking with people into health, healing and maturity through the power of the Holy Spirit and God's word.
